If you have not tried it, do so AT ONCE.
There is relief for you; it has been found in

Sonogaline

Read what an eminent physician has to say upon the subject:

"I have derived particularly gratifying results from the use of Sonogaline in cases of Dysmenorrhea, and a chronic sufferer from this disease, who had been driven almost to the verge of insanity by monthly sufferings, its use has been most satisfactory. It relieved her promptly, and she has since the time she commenced its use with but little discomfort. I could mention other instances of a similar character, but this is a remarkable case."

A CATHOLIC'S OPINION.

INTERVIEWED ON THE RIOTS.

He Claims That in Every Case the Orangemen
Have Been the Aggressors—Quiet
Beliefs in Belfast—An Orange Procession
Attacked in London—Foreign News.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Rev. Patrick Mallister, Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese of Down, being interviewed on the subject of the Belfast riots, said to a Cable News correspondent: "The Belfast riots are due to the incitement of the Orangemen to acts of violence by the so-called Loyalist press and the incendiary fomentations of the Orangemen and persons who call themselves Loyalists and use the platform and the pulpit for the purpose of convincing their hearers that Catholicism is idolatry. These attacks have led to unprovoked attacks by Orangemen upon Catholics, which of course the latter have resisted. Cite any case of rioting in Belfast, and I will show that Orangemen have been the aggressors and that the Catholics have risen against them only when provoked to violent resistance, and then only when compelled to do so in defense of their lives and homes."

"The Orangemen in purely Catholic districts have never been molested, and being in the minority they, of course, have not molested Catholics. The police have been treated very unjustly. They were called upon to fire first upon the crowd, unless they were compelled to, and in every case where they have fired upon the mob Orangemen have been the aggressors. The police were resisting their authority. The Catholics when engaged in defending themselves against the Orangemen were not armed, and it is to be regretted that the police were not armed. The police were not armed, and it is to be regretted that the police were not armed. The police were not armed, and it is to be regretted that the police were not armed."

"In spite of what has been said against them, I believe the police are absolutely unbiased, and I am satisfied they would fire upon Catholics without hesitation if it should be necessary to stop rioting. Let the police manage matters and the rioting will be suppressed in short order, and permanently, too. Let the local magistrates remain at home, and let justice be executed by the stipendiary magistrates, who are responsible to the government, and you will soon see a cessation of violence and the restoration of order. The local magistrates are partial to Orangemen, the stipendiary magistrates are partial to Catholics."

"If they may choose to do so, he could issue his own warrant to refrain from attacking Catholics, but he closes his eyes to the outrageous conduct. If the complaints against the police are well founded, which I deny, their truth furnishes no excuse for wholesale attack upon Catholics. The priests have used their influence with their people to the attack, and have in this way contributed a large measure of assistance to the police in preserving order, but it has not been at all to the disadvantage of the Catholics. The priests have used their influence with their people to the attack, and have in this way contributed a large measure of assistance to the police in preserving order, but it has not been at all to the disadvantage of the Catholics."

Referring Rev. Dr. Kane.
BELFAST, Aug. 12.—The Northern Whig, a Protestant newspaper, contains an editorial, severely rebuking Rev. Dr. Kane, the master of the Orange lodge, for his language in an interview with a Cable News reporter. Rev. Dr. Kane, however, in an interview in New York on Belfast riots, said that he had not used the rioting words to Catholics, but in his interview with the most rigorous language, denouncing the police and Catholics in most scathing terms.

No Further Rioting in Belfast.
BELFAST, Aug. 12.—The city was quiet through the night with the exception of some slight harmless discharge of fireworks. The police in the Grosvenor road district made several rounds through that part of the city for arms but failed to discover any. Forty persons are now in the Royal hospital under treatment for wounds received during the recent rioting. A heavy rain which set in after dark helped materially to keep the streets clear of crowds.

Attacking the Orange Procession.
LONDON, Aug. 12.—William an Orange procession was leading the street here two bottles filled with gunpowder, and to which were attached lighted fuses, were thrown into the ranks. The procession scattered the bottles before the fuses burned down to the powder, thereby preparing an explosion that would no doubt have resulted in the killing and wounding of many. The affair has caused intense excitement.

DUBLIN, Aug. 12.—United Ireland, Mr. Parnell's organ, commenting on the speech of Lord Salisbury at the Lord Mayor's dinner last night, says: "Lord Salisbury has declared war a Loyalist. The burden of his speech is to say that the war is not a religious war, but a political war. Very good! Our race is accustomed to resist tyranny. War let it be in the name of God."

DIED IN PRISON.

Gilbert Yost, a Noted Safe Burglar, Dies
in the Penitentiary.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Gilbert Yost, the noted safe burglar and inventor of burglars' tools, has just died, so Detective Robert A. Finkelman learns, in the Northern Indiana prison, where he was serving a fourteen-year term for burglary. He was the inventor of a set of burglars' tools weighing less than four pounds, which enabled him or any one understanding the tools to open any ordinary safe without the secret of his invention becoming known to other parties outside of those who were his immediate associates and worked with him. The whole set of tools could be carried in an inside coat pocket without being noticed.

Yost used his confederates with this set of tools confined themselves almost entirely to robbing safes of country jewelry stores, and as a general rule he himself did not handle the whole set of tools. In order to protect retailers, who in many instances were their creditors to large amounts, to form what is known as the Yost-Burglar's alliance for the purpose of following up and punishing burglars who robbed its members. The alliance prohibited the Finkelmans at their robbery in Indiana, for which he was serving out his sentence when he died. Yost had a great deal of money, mostly in the form of cash, and on this he depended several times in getting out of trouble. When sent to prison in the northern Indiana, for the Yost-Burglar's alliance, he was recognized by him as a former inmate of the prison who had signed himself, and this, although not prohibited by the alliance, was a violation of the alliance, and he was kept in close confinement from the time of his arrest until his death.

ADDRESSING THE JURY.

The State's Attorney Summing Up the Evidence of the Defense.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Assistant State's Attorney Walker resumed his address to the jury in the Anhalt trial this morning. Mr. Walker charged Fielden with having premeditated danger, and referred to a passage of his speech in which Fielden's guilty knowledge of approaching riot and murder. The danger belonging to Fischer, found in the Arbeiter Zeitung office, corresponded exactly with the danger which the law of which was advised in Musk's book. Then the lawyer transferred his attention to Ling's speech, and charged Ling with having premeditated danger, and referred to a passage of his speech in which Ling's guilty knowledge of approaching riot and murder. Excitement in Danville.
DANVILLE, Va., Aug. 12.—Some months ago a story was published of a street fight in Danville, Va., between two brothers, John and William, and the Spencer brothers, both belonging to well known families. The fight grew out of a card which P. D. Spencer published reading nothing more than that he and several friends of both parties engaged in the fight. Forty shots were fired and J. K. Terry was killed outright. The other three were not injured. The trial of John D. Spencer for the murder of Terry was concluded and he was acquitted. Other persons were to be tried later. The case has caused much excitement in this city that ever occurred in Henry county.

The Same Old Sea Serpent.
NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12.—The sea serpent has made its appearance hereabout. Last night it was seen off Ocean View by a number of reliable people, and that it had assembled that of a horse, and that a row of serrated pretearments ornamented the upper part of its body, and that the tail fin-like at the time the length of the serpent could not be determined, but it is variously estimated by those who saw it to be about 100 feet in length and of a gray color. It remained on the surface about five minutes, and then disappeared beneath the surface, leaving a peculiar noise, resembling the sound of escaping steam.

A Terrible Storm.
FORT McKEON, Mont., Aug. 12.—News has reached here that the new town of Look in Northern Wyoming, near the Montana line, was visited by a terrible storm of rain and hail Monday which virtually leveled the town. The town was built on a hill and was surrounded by a high wall of tents and temporary structures of boards. The storm literally swept the earth clear of its inhabitants, and the tents and canvas were blown away. Yards of canvas were scattered all over the place, and the tents were blown away. CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 12.—An European diplomat, in an interview said: "Chihuahua has as good a right to be peculiar to us as France, from which country it was adopted. It is not likely that in a case of a similar kind with France the United States would make a preliminary demand for the release of her citizens. The United States view of the case will not be the view of European countries where a similar law to that of Chihuahua prevails. DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
Proprietors.

FRIDAY EVENING, AUG. 13, 1886.

The present administration meets with favor in the eyes of the Kansas Democrats.

The majority against saloons at Eminence, Ky., last week was 22. Rather small, but enough to satisfy the temperance folks.

GENERAL JAMES W. DENVER has been unanimously nominated for Congress in the 12th district of Ohio. The district includes Brown, Ross and other counties.

Local option was defeated at Shelbyville, Ky., on the second of this month, but the temperance advocates have since elected a City Council that is opposed to granting any license.

In the Glasgow Judicial district, it appears that Carr, Republican, was elected Circuit Judge over Leslie, Democrat, by a majority of four votes. That's what might be termed pulling through by the skin of the teeth.

It remained for a Democratic administration to forfeit the grant of large areas of public land, unlawfully held by grasping railroad companies. About 22,000,000 acres in New Mexico and California will soon be restored to the public domain under the act of Congress.

The Treasury Department has sent out information that five cent nickel and one-cent pieces will be forwarded from the United States Mint at Philadelphia free of transportation charge in sums of twenty dollars or multiples upon the receipt and collection by the Superintendent of the Mint of a draft on New York or Philadelphia, payable to his order.

CRAIG TOLLIVER has gone to Texas, and Cook Humphrey to Missouri, to live. They agree not to come back to Kentucky, except upon a short visit to attend a sick relative or the funeral of some of the family.—Exchange.

Mistake. If reports be true, Craig is lurking among the hills and valleys of Elliott County, and Cook has been in this city for several days. Their agreement is to keep out of Rowan County, not out of the State.

In the Somerset Judicial district, Colonel Z. T. Morrow was elected Circuit Judge by about 800 majority. He does not claim that his election was a Republican victory, but says it is "mainly due to personal friendship among his Democratic acquaintances." What a clever set of fellows the Democrats must be over that way, anyhow! With them, party principles must be sacrificed when personal friendship is concerned.

HON. G. S. WALL, of Mayville, candidate for Democratic nomination to Congress, was in this county the latter part of last week. Mr. Wall informs us his chances are very good for nomination. While we differ politically with Judge Wall, we do not know of any man in this district, outside of our county, on that side of the house that we would rather see go to Congress than he. To know him intimately is to highly respect him.—Greenup Gazette.

MR. SAM HANLEY, the evangelist, yesterday made a deposit at the Queen City National Bank. The money was in a large roll, and the receiving teller was surprised to find in the middle of it several good checks stamped with the familiar words, "Good for 5 cents at the bar." No explanation was asked and none was given as the roll happened to be there. Accidents will happen in the best.—Chilcotean Enquirer.

Accident? Nothing of the kind. Sam used to be one of "the boys," you know, and those chips or checks were only mementoes which he was carrying around, of the days of "sail lang-yang."

As a vetoer, Cleveland stands at the head of the list. He has opinions of his own on every subject that presents itself for his sanction and approval, and he has demonstrated that he is not at all backward in expressing these opinions whenever called upon to do so. During the recent session of Congress, the number of Presidential vetoes was 110. President Washington vetoed 2 bills, Madison 6, Monroe 1, Jackson 11, Taylor 9, Polk 5, Pierce 9, Buchanan 4, Lincoln 1, Johnson 17, Grant 28, Hayes 12, and Arthur 4. Grant, who held the record up to 1866, vetoed 28 bills in eight months; Cleveland has vetoed 110 in eight months.

As Old Citizens Speak,

Mr. J. M. Norris, an old resident of Rome, Ga., says that he had been badly troubled with kidney complaint for a great many years and with excruciating pains; at times could scarcely walk and had tried many remedies without benefit, until he began taking Electric Bitters and anointing his hands and feet with Hocken's Aniline Balm. This treatment afforded him great relief, and he strongly recommends Electric Bitters to all who suffer with kidney complaints, or need a Blood Purifier. Sold by J. O. Peacor & Co.

ARISTOCRATIC AND RESERVED LOOKING YOUNG CLUB MEMBERS.

An illustration of the Astounding Aids Which Come of the Younger New Yorkers Put on When They Obtain Any Social Recognition.

A small club, of which I am a charter member, grew rapidly under the management of a lot of popular men, who had been taken into the organization, and moved into a new club-house with extensive surroundings. The event was celebrated by an entertainment, which began at 9 o'clock at night, and which consisted of recitations, music, stories, and speeches. The day of the great occasion was very warm, the previous night had been somewhat obnoxious and difficult to subside, and I had just got back from a look at the new athletic grounds at Staten Island, with a good-natured old story, and was one of the ten men who had started the club. He has an interest in a steamship line, is easy-going and pleasant, an authority on club matters, and has the entire everywhere in New York. We went to a little club-house in Thirty-fourth street, and ate until 9 o'clock, when we both thought of the club reception. We drifted up to the new house and went in. There were 100 young men in the place, and all but our selves were in evening dress. I don't think either one of us looked very distinguished in two suits, but then men don't care particularly about their attire in a club with which they have been familiar from their infancy. At all events we pushed our way to the rooms on the first floor.

A downy pale faced, small-featured, and slim young man stared at us haughtily, and refused to make room. We looked about, and neither of us recognized an acquaintance within speaking distance. They were all fellow-members, but they were all a lot of the most popular men, and I was looking youngsters that I have ever seen, and it was evident that we had not created a good impression. One or two of the older club servants saw us, and hurried in with chairs, but they met with stubborn opposition from the dainty young men who were seated, as well as from those who stood in the way. I turned to the young man who stood next to me, and looked at him timidly. He wore a white waistcoat with gold buttons, two cat's-eye studs, a black tie, a well-fitting clasp-banner, wide satin stripes down the sides of his trousers, boots on his boots, and pearl-colored gloves, with black stripes half an inch wide along the back of the hand. He was about six feet high and presented a mean average girth of about ten inches. His face was decorated by an exclusive looking mustache, and his eyes were partially closed, as though he was very much bored with life. He must have been nearly 30 years old. After looking him over carefully, I ventured to say in a quiet and respectful tone, if the president of the club had spoken yet. The young man turned very slowly, fixed his glass in his eye, examined my companion and myself with the utmost care, and then said: "Aw." "How's that?" my friend said, sharply. "Aw."

We both looked at him inquiringly, but he dropped his glass and deliberately turned away. At this point we were recognized and rescued by some friends further away, but neither one of us forgot the haughty young man in evening dress.

When we saw him again. We were walking up town briskly, together, when we saw him again. His mustache was a slim pick, and he had a reserved expression of the face, but all the glory of apparel had departed; his boots were run over at the side, he wore a shiny office coat, and he carried his arms as he carried his roll of cloth, which he was evidently taking from one importing house to another from afar, and he was waiting. He was smoking a cigarette, and was rushing along at a violent rate with his hands of goods. We stopped him and begged a light from his cigarette. He hesitated, but in the most ungracious manner, so as to hold one half of goods on his knee while he removed his cigarette with his free hand, and each of us consumed as much time as possible in taking a light. Then my friend asked him if he was well, and he said: "Yes, sir," clearly, respectfully, and with an indubitably New York accent. We talked about the weather and the affairs of the club, while he fumed and fumed at the waste of time; and then we examined the cloth, and asked him its price a yard. After we had learned it, we went on our way.

I relate the incident as an illustration of the astounding aids that come of the younger New Yorkers put on when they obtain any social recognition. The section that New York men are ill-mannered and shoddy is true as far as it concerns a few thousand young sprigs, and who depend very largely for social recognition upon their clothes, was a $1 a week errand boy down town, who boarded home in Forty-first street, and was supported by small remittances from his father, who keeps a small supply store in Hackettstown, N. J. His up-town acquaintance only knew him as a man of great elegance of attire, and he got into a club of some position, as many other men have, simply because he was unknown. The man who was with me on the night of the reception is so well known in eliteness that any man of acquaintance in New York must know him at least by sight. Yet he was snubbed and insulted by an errand boy in a club which he had helped to organize, because he wore a tweed suit instead of conventional evening attire.

There seems to be a wide difference of opinion about evening dress outside of New York, but there is no question of the manner in which it is regarded here. A young man who is unknown and who has social aspirations would do well to wear evening dress invariably after dinner. Men who do not have to depend on their clothes for social recognition must abstain from frock coats, and when the warmer months come, in light sack suits, to entertainments of all sorts. If a man accompanies a lady or a party of ladies to the theatre he usually wears evening dress, but hundreds of men of unquestionably high social position go to the opera, to the theatre, to the races, to the fair, to the hotel, in the morning suit.—Bakely Hall in San Francisco Argonaut.

Why He Took Two. The story told of a Scotch wife, shortly after the nuptial knot had been tied, mildly expostulating with her husband for indulging in two tumblers of whisky toddy just before going to bed. "My dear Agnes, a glass of whisky toddy makes neither man or woman," "But, my dear William, you take two," "Ay, Agnes, that gangs to the tiber man."

The sermon by Dr. J. B. West Wednesday morning was one of the finest ever heard on the grounds. Tuesday night was a regular jubilee at this camp. Rev. S. C. Deering, the projector of the scheme that has resulted in the present Park's Hill Camp Meeting, was on the grounds and led the services. His sermon on Math. 19: 27, was a splendid exposition of the text, and with a fine discourse. Though seventy-one years of age, he still possesses much of mental vigor, and really surprised many of his brethren with the freshness of his thought. After the sermon a regular old-fashioned hand-baling was indulged in, many of the friends of the meeting taking advantage of the opportunity to greet the originator of the institution that has furnished them so many spiritual privileges.

The Convicts Not Mistreated.

A few weeks ago the Greenup Gazette contained the following item which was extensively copied:

"While down in Campbell County last week, we were in the neighborhood where the convicts are working on the Mayville line. Big Sandy is there. There are about eighty of these unfortunate beings at work down there in California. We conversed with several responsible gentlemen who had been in and about the convict's camp frequently since the convicts have been stationed. These gentlemen inform us that the treatment of the convicts is most cruel and inhuman. They are put to work at five o'clock in the morning and work until six in the evening, with half an hour's interval. They are worked by hard-hearted masters whose main object seems to be to get all the labor possible out of the convicts, regardless of their sufferings and misery. These are county felons. Some gentlemen present when the convicts were given their supper, informed us that it consisted of corn bread, rice and coffee after a hard day's work."

In answer to the foregoing Dr. West, the physician in charge of the camps, makes the following statement:

CALIFORNIA, Ky., July 31, 1898.
Editor Bulletin: "I have read the article in the Greenup Gazette as to the treatment of the convicts at the camps. I never work of which is late. I am physician for two of the camps at California, and I think I can truly say that the convicts have good kind masters and that they do not work them harder than other contractors. If they are sick they have every attention, and the convicts are so to themselves that they have all that is needed. Yours, Very Respectfully, WM. HUBERT WEST, M. D."

Two Men Propose Taking the Perilous Trip in an Old Bear Hogshed.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Whirlpool rapid cranks are becoming numerous in this vicinity. Two men have made public their plans, which are somewhat novel. The men are John Fremo, a painter, and Fred H. They propose on Sunday, August 22, to navigate the rapids and whirlpool in an old oak bear hogshed, which has for six years been lying empty in George Rice's inventory. The barrel is five feet long and four feet in diameter at the head. They say that they are moving through in a tulo, and they intend to show that their predecessors are entitled to no credit whatever. The barrel will be weighted down with 1,500 pounds of sand in a box and upon this the barrel will be constructed. It will be a free and easy trip in all its details.

AMERICAN ANTI-BISMARCK BUND.

A Secret Society Formed, the Object of Which is to Remove Bismarck.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 13.—By some time rumors have been current that Poles and German Catholics had formed a secret society, the object of which is to "remove" Bismarck in revenge for his course towards the Poles and Catholics. That such a society existed has, it is believed now, been ascertained. Several documents have been found in the house of a German druggist which show the form of the oath to be taken by the new members, and their pledge to further the objects of the organization which styles itself "A. A. B." (American Anti-Bismarck Bund).

The oath is a business-like form, and would do honor to O'Donovan Rossa. How many members the society numbers is not known. It was gotten up by Reinhold Koch and Theodore Gundersen, both well-educated Germans.

Miss Kestler's father, a government clerk in Washington, is on his way here in search of the deserters. Mrs. Choquette says she knew Fred in Montreal, and that his picture was in the "Globe" galleries of Boston, New York and Canada; he had served a term in the Kingston penitentiary, and had "beat" her out of $2,000 in seven months.

A Brutal Murder.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 14.—About midnight last night George Mann, one of the notorious "Mann brothers," proprietors of the Grand Central Hotel, armed himself with a keen-edged butcher knife, and started for the house of his mistress, Annie Taylor, at the corner of Green and Third streets. When Mann met the woman he drew the large weapon and plunged it into her stomach, completely dismembering his victim. The woman fell to the sidewalk, but Mann instantly turned back, jerking her to her feet, forced her to walk to the house, a square distant, where she died this morning. Mann was arrested after a hard fight with the police.
